

MLLI's Spanish Area Documentary Film Festival & the Minor in Latin American Studies present

POWERLANDS

DIR. IVEY CAMILLE
MANYBEADS TSO

Tuesday, March
14, 6 PM, Webex

Ivey Camille Manybeads Tso, a young Navajo filmmaker, investigates the displacement of Indigenous people and the devastation of the environment caused by the same chemical companies that have exploited the land where she was born. She travels to the La Guajira region in rural Colombia, the Tampakan region of the Philippines, the Tehuantepec Isthmus of Mexico, and the protests at Standing Rock. In each case, she meets Indigenous women leading the struggle against the same corporations that are causing displacement and environmental catastrophe in her own home. Inspired by these women, Ivey Camille brings home the lessons from these struggles to the Navajo Nation.

Introduction & Post-screening discussion with Dr. Christine Ami
(Diné College) & Dr. Andrew Curley
(University of Arizona)
Contact: lizarazo@umbc.edu

Scan this QR code to join the screening on Webex