

Private UMBC Viewing: Selections from One Hundred Years Later– Impressions.

December 10th, 2017 5-6 pm. University Center Third Floor

Part of Beauty Will Save the World: New Year's Ball, 2017 – a celebration of Russian Culture

The October Revolution, which ushered in the Soviet Era, brought both unimaginable persecution and astonishing artistic expression. This exhibit, which concludes its New York-Washington DC tour at UMBC, features works by contemporary Russian artists in commemoration of the centennial anniversary of the 1917 coup in Russia.

The works, on loan to the UMBC gallery for one night only, reveal the impact that both the officially sanctioned Soviet Realism and the clandestine Avant-garde movement, have had on the lives of these celebrated Russian artists.

Special thanks to Severniy Krest for making this special viewing possible.

Tickets are free for UMBC students, $5 for non-students.
Questions? Contact Vira Zhdanovych, vira@umbc.edu