

2015 LSAC LAW SCHOOL FORUMS

Sponsored by the Law School Admission Council and Participating LSAC-member Law Schools

WHO WILL BENEFIT FROM ATTENDING A FORUM?

- Undergraduates, graduates, or career changers who are thinking about law school
- Anyone who is thinking about taking the LSAT
- Law school applicants who need more information about financing their legal education
- All of the above!

WHAT IS AN LSAC FORUM?

A Law School Forum is your best opportunity to get answers for all of your questions about law school, the admission process, and being a lawyer. Attendees get personal attention from law school representatives, along with workshops, loads of information, all in one place. Admission is free.

WHY SHOULD I GO?

- » LSAC Forums feature live workshops with insider information exclusive to LSAC events. Learn how to finance your legal education, acquire study tips from an LSAT developer, get advice from successful applicants and attorneys, get admission advice, and attend diversity panels.
- » Meet with the law schools of your choice—representatives from approximately 150 ABA-approved and Canadian law schools will be available to chat.
