"I learned that I will be a more credible leader by making sure the advice I'm giving matches the example I'm setting each day."

"The instructors complemented each other well and did an excellent job making the webinar experience personable and interactive."

"I recommend this course to anyone who wants to reflect and improve on their leadership skills."

This program is a webinar lead by National Seminars Group Trainer, Pamela Jett and discussion/skills practice facilitated by Terri Werner & Jill Weinknecht Wardell, UMBC T&OD Department.

Inspirational leaders somehow find a way to get more out of their people than would have seemed possible. They get great results while maintaining the engagement and excitement of their team.

Very few people are born with the charismatic leadership abilities that naturally drive those around them to dig deep to achieve their all-out best. But these skills can be learned. When you attend this facilitated webinar, you'll learn the strategies used by the most inspirational leaders of all time to ignite incredible performance from people.

We will explore these topics:

- The distinction between 'managing' and 'leading' - what makes an inspirational leader.
- How to utilize inspirational appeals - logic, emotion, and credibility.
- Tips to boost egos without overinflating them.
- The importance of honesty and not misleading your team.
- Leading the charge - why your behavior is the number one factor in inspiration.
- Inspiration killers - common mistakes that will crush motivation.
- Creating a vision of the future to encourage great results.
- The vital role of clear communication in inspirational leadership.
